

The Hierarchy of Government In NZ 2026

This is the current configuration of the NZ Government with all the different parties, coalition agreements etc. The red star shows where the seat of power and decision-making sits, not with the Cabinet, not with coalition partners, although they would like you to think they have power, but with the PM and a few key senior Ministers.

That's why this and all Governments can rush through policies or do anything they like; they have given themselves the authority to make ANY decisions they like. Voting is a farce in this current system. We have to change the system.
